H. Jones and Joseph Hatten of Hattens have cleared and prepared 750 acres which they will farm under the name of Fred T. Hickerson Company. Typically, these new land projects of the Hickerson Company farm is equipped with a ditch and pumping system for both adequate drainage and irrigation. In addition this group has begun erecting packing house, implement sheds and other buildings for 60 negro laborers on the farm site. Beans, celery and potatoes will be the chief crops grown here. Other crops will be tomatoes, pepper, cabbage, lettuce and similar vegetables.

Across the canal from the Hickerson Company farm the United States Sugar Corporation, working in cooperation with the Newport Industries of Pensacola, has 500 acres in ramie, a plant of Asia said to be one of the finest of natural fibers, having both strength and luster. The USSC has for some years been conduct-and the Newport Industries have been studying how to process and market this crop. Approximately 1,500 acres of ramie are already in present to the growing of ramie which is expected to be the beginning of a very substantial agro-industrial project for the Glades. Of this 1,500 acre tract approximately 500 acres is being leased to small farmers this season for the growing of vegetable until June, when it will be cleared for the planting of ramie. Under present plans the construction of a plant for the processing of the fiber will start sometime this fall.

Other new vegetable farm projects located between the ramie plantation, and Twenty-mile Bend include some 600 acres prepared for the Friends and Society of Unity for cultivation. Donny Johnson about 300 acres ready for cultivation, and Huff Farms of Elken is planting 200 acres. The Herman Sausage Company of Elken has 100 acres of alfalfa on the north side of the canal for use as a cattle ranch. This company also has several hundred acres on the south side of the canal which are being used to grow vegetables but which will be planted to grass for pasture. Application has been made to the Florida Power and Light Company for the construction of a power line to this new farming area.

As they start the new season, shades growers face difficult situations unavoidable in wartime—that make farming an ever-increasingly difficult proposition. The scarcity of competent farm labor and the very high cost of all types of labor constitute their

PEOPLE WORKING, TOO BUSY TO VIOLATE LAWS

TALLAHASSEE, Sept. 7.—Enforcement of hunting and fishing regulations in Florida was on a high alert today, according to I. N. Kennedy, director of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. The figures were for the first year ending June 30, and disclosed a total of 610 arrests during that time. In 24 counties, conviction resulted from every case made.

Five hundred and eighteen persons were convicted for various game and fish law violations while 46 were acquitted and a like number of cases were pending June 30.

Five hundred and eighteen persons were convicted for various game and fish law violations while 46 were acquitted and a like number of cases were pending June 30.

Victims of the law requiring possession of fishing licenses led the field with 172. Possession of undersized fish caused 91 persons to be hauled into court, while 41 persons were arrested for hunting without licenses.

Other arrests made throughout the state during the year were as follows: taking black bass in closed season, 37; use of traps, nets or seines in fresh water, 30; taking game during closed season, 29; rigging fish, 17; taking deer, 9; night hunting with light, 8; exceeding the bag limit with fish, 8; and dynamiting fish, 5.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dalton, long-time residents of Pahokee, now live at Memphis, Tenn., where he is in charge of a Firestone tire establishment. He was manager of the Postal Telegraph Co. office at Pahokee for several years and later was employed at Fort Lauderdale as a clerk for the State War Department. His wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Crosby of Pahokee. Mr. Dalton's brother lives in Memphis.

Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture, visited Moore Haven recently to inspect the ramie planting there on land owned by J. E. Beardsley.

Mrs. Lizer Alice Arnold, who died last week at Bascetter at the age of 93 years, is survived by fifty-six grandchildren and seventy-six great-grandchildren and three great great-grandchildren.

Several years ago John M. Gleubish was local reporter on the Pahokee News and later a reporter for The Everglades News, going to St. Cloud from here. Widely known as "Judge," he is now at South Bend, Ind., address 709 Sherman ave., employed as a clerk in the salvage department of Studebaker aviation plant at $117 an hour and a 22 per cent bonus.

In a letter to a friend in Florida he says "from every indication Indiana is going Republican this fall" though why he wanted to throw that in we don't know.

WHY DIFFERENCES IN OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

Recipients of old-age assistance who get $40 per month, the largest amount allowed by law, do not always have their need as fully met as do others who receive less.

This point was brought out by Dr. Carl N. Herman, chairman of the District 10 Welfare Board, in commenting on the recent announcement of State Welfare Commissioner Leland W. Hatt that the number of persons receiving the $40 monthly payment in Florida had increased from 172 slightly more than a year ago to 6,241 as of August.

"We would be greatly distressed if those who receive smaller monthly payments should feel that they were not being treated fairly, because of their failure to understand that public assistance is not a pension but is based on need," Dr. Herman said.

Illustrating the point, he cited the case of a man whom he identified only as Mr. X. "Mr. X," he said, "in bedridden, is in need of medical care and constant nursing care, is without income of any kind and has no relatives who can contribute to his support. Although the district board allows him $10 per month, which is as far as it can go, it had not met his need. By way of contrast, it allowed Mr. J. who had other resources, but $10 per month and 23-day furlough from the Navy to a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Schultz. He has been serving in the Pacific for the past several months and will report at a Pacific office for further orders on September 12.
